Mac OS X Free Download For PoserPro.Q: Cannot install PostgreSQL with Homebrew and the terminal I am trying to install PostgreSQL on my Macbook Pro. I was previously able to successfully install Postgresql with the same exact terminal commands before uninstalling Homebrew and installing it again. When I try to install Postgresql, I am getting the following: $ /usr/local/bin/port -v POSTGRES_VERSION --install Downloading PostgreSQL sources from /usr/local/bin/port: line 108: /Library/Developer/CommandLineTools/usr/bin/curl: No such file or directory If I run port, it just loads forever without any output, and if I run homebrew doctor, it says: $ brew doctor Please note that these warnings are just used to help the Homebrew maintainers with debugging if you file an issue. If everything you use Homebrew for is working fine: please don't worry and just ignore them. Thanks! It's safe to keep using Homebrew with this warning, but please don't file issues on Homebrew issues; let us know if something goes wrong. You can always delete the Homebrew folder locally with /usr/local/bin/ruby -e "$(curl -fsSL ruby-build:314: warning: Insecure world writable dir /usr/local/bin in PATH, mode 0755 I have tried several different ways of contacting the homepage for PostgreSQL, such as the Ubuntu forums, the PostgreSQL mailing list, and the PostgreSQL online documentation.
