In nodejs, when I do http.get(), I want the program to exit after it downloads the new file. Currently I have to go to the command line, and type "kill". Is there a way I can make it so the get() function automatically exits after it downloads? A: node doesn't provide a mechanism for monitoring a file download, but you can monitor a process for a file change by adding an event listener to a directory that you want to monitor. For example, when you read a file from disk, the buffer is stored in memory, and then the buffer is written back to disk before the next request occurs. var fs = require('fs'); var path = require('path'); var tmpDir = path.join(path.resolve(__dirname, 'tmp')); fs.mkdirSync(tmpDir); fs.watch(tmpDir, { events: ['change', 'create','remove','rename'], listeners: function(event, file) { console.log('change:'+ file); } }); Read more: node provides another mechanism for monitoring downloads (but it's not automatic) - watch. For example, var http = require('http'); var fs = require('fs'); var path = require('path'); var server = http.createServer(function(req, res) { res.writeHead(200, { 'Content-Type': 'text ventricular ejection fraction (LVEF) estimated by gated blood pool scintigraphy (gated planar and SPECT methods) in prediction of outcome was evaluated in patients with end-stage renal disease (ESRD). ESRD patients with normal blood pressure undergoing dialysis were observed. LVEF was evaluated on the basis of gated planar and SPECT scintigraphy. Patients were followed up for 5 years. Of all ESRD patients, 30% had normal LVEF and 70% had low LVEF. No correlation between LVEF and clinical findings was found. Patients with normal LVEF had significantly better prognosis than patients with low LVEF (survival in 5-year period was 92 and 57%, respectively, p Q: Using a self referential foreign key as a string array I have a table for storing item names (this table needs to reference itself): CREATE TABLE Item (id int auto_increment primary key, name text); The schema for the item names
