Truth I wish to read the Encyclopedist, on art, morality, and politics. I wish to speak with the First Editor, on all subjects. I wish to recollect the faces of all who have spoken in my presence; to retain the smallest shade of expression they have exhibited; to recall their poses and gestures. I wish to mark the scientific researches that aim to discover truth, and to record every detail which the muse of science might reveal; and to collect with ardour the first relics of former civilizations, wherever they may be found.
