From the group of freedom of speech.. GK This work is really a good book that will define that the different types of activities of the society are being identified and these are. Mike and Chris, you are not going to believe this, but when I took my son to summer camp, I brought a portable DVD player. I rarely bring my laptop or a book and even less often do I bring my iPad, though somehow my son always figures out how to bring his to the lake. He has 4 controllers and plays amazingly well on that thing, but I need a lot more for my own games. And while I realize there are rules to not disturb the others, the iPad has a very nice Game Center that I'm trying to get to work and has the basic functionality I need. But since I couldn't find a dock or similar that I could use for the iPad, I had to find a way to use a PS3 to play games. There are so many apps for the iPad that I don't care if the screen gets broken or the controller gets lost, it's a waste of money. So a few years ago when I stumbled upon a Kindle Fire, I was on top of the world. I have a pile of books that I love and I also have the Kindle, which makes it easier to read in public when I'm on the train, a toilet, or waiting in the doctor's office. But some apps sucked, the screen was crap, it wouldn't hold or read all the books I had, and Kindle for Android didn't work with the cases I had (they wanted to be fancy like a Kindle, but should have a hole, like a tablet). And then I saw a Kindle Fire

---

HD. It looked the same as the Kindle. It had the same apps. It had the same screen. But it worked. It didn't cost me anything, just paid about $70 for the insurance.

And I was at peace, knowing I had an e-reader that would last me, and could even handle books that I loved. But then I woke up. The Fire HD has excellent prices. I can get a really good deal on it, but it isn't dirt-cheap. You can get one for $119.99. You can get one for $199.99. But I usually get one for $159.99. So I'm in a bind.

I have Kindle apps
